

BOTH PARTIES WOULD REPEAL STATE N. R. A.

PRELIMINARY ACTION TAKEN BY ASSEMBLY

Measure Has Been Slumbering For Many Weeks

Springfield, Ill., May 29.—(P)—Democrats joined Republican house members today in a move preliminary to repeal of the state N. R. A. act. Much to the surprise of Republicans, who had expected opposition to make speeches denouncing the N. R. A. and hailing the action of the United States supreme court in holding the national act unconstitutional, a motion to discharge a committee from further consideration of the repeal bill was carried unanimously.

The repealer has been slumbering in committee since the early days of the session. Formal notice was served yesterday by Clinton Searle, Rock Island, and Elmer Schnackenberg, Chicago, Republicans, that they would move for the discharge of the committee today and the placing of the bill on the calendar.

Usually such motions bring on debate and result in record roll calls on which each member is privileged to talk.

Although Attorney General Otto Kerner had declared the state N. R. A. act invalid as a result of the United States supreme court's ruling on the N. R. A. act, the Republican members insisted on consideration of the repealer so they would have an opportunity to discuss the N. R. A.

When Searle made his motion today Speaker John P. Devine put the question immediately, calling for a viva voce vote.

Democrats joined Republicans in yellow and no one responded to the call for no votes.

When the speaker declared the motion passed there came a loud laugh from the Democratic side where it had previously been agreed the procedure would block Republican oratory.

Whether Democrats will continue to vote with Republicans as the bill is advanced is not known but a number of the majority leaders privately said they favored rushing the bill through the house so as to curtail G. O. P. oratory.

The state N. R. A. act was passed after a lengthy struggle in a special session. It provided that all codes promulgated by the national N. R. A. should automatically become the standard of fair competition within the state.

Similar tactics were followed in the senate today when its elections committee reported unfavorably the permanent registration bill introduced by Earl B. Searcy of Springfield after identical measures had been killed in the house.

Searcy, fearful that a motion to non-concur in the committee report would be useless, asked that the bill be placed on the calendar in spite of the report. Without protest the Democrats permitted this action to be taken, preventing a flood of oratory reviewing the slaughter of the measures in the house.

The senate passed the Lantz-Lohmann bill permitting the use of federal public works funds for the construction of farm to market roads.

The bills were sponsored by the Illinois Agricultural Association and propose that at least one-half of the federal funds received, other than for grain crossings, be used for construction and maintenance of roads and streets. Labor would be provided by relief officials.

Both houses today adjourned until next Monday, many members having speaking engagements for Memorial Day.

Washington, May 29.—(P)—Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief and work progress administrator, today appointed Robert J. Dunham, Chicago, state works progress administrator for Illinois. Dunham is chairman of the Illinois state relief commission.

Hamilton Fish, Jr. Favors Immediate Payment of Bonus

Bloomington, Ill., May 29.—(P)—Congressman Hamilton Fish, Jr., of New York said tonight he plans to put the Republican party on record as favoring immediate payment of the cash bonus from public works funds. Here to address the 79th anniversary meeting of the Republican party in Illinois, Fish said he would move for party action on his plan at a conference of Republican representatives in congress to be held in Washington Monday night.

GOLD IS STILL FLOWING FROM BANK FRANCE

Premier Flandin Has Suffered First Setback

By John Evans

Copyright, 1935, By The Associated Press

Paris, May 29.—A steady golden stream, uninterrupted despite strenuous efforts to halt the flight from the franc, flowed out from the Bank of France's vaults today as Premier Piere-Etienne Flandin suffered the first major setback in his battle for dictatorial financial powers.

The chamber of deputies finance committee voted 25 to 15 against his bill requesting far-reaching authority to balance the budget, and defend the franc, emphasizing open hostility developing in parliament to the government's program. Some quarters said they believed Flandin might have to resign.

Unimpressed, however, Flandin said he would carry his appeal directly to the chamber tomorrow. Prosecution of persons speculating against the franc is contemplated, he announced, and evidence gathered has been sent to the ministry of justice.

Meanwhile the Bank of France's gold losses continued to average about 1,000,000 francs ($150,000,000) daily, with total losses since the movement began late in March estimated at some 11,000,000 francs (almost $1,600,000,000).

The bank succeeded, however, in keeping the franc currency unit pegged at around 1319 to the dollar ($5.33 cents to the franc) by selling dollars to all comers.

After rejecting Flandin's demand for dictatorial financial powers, the chamber committee asked the government to prosecute speculators and take over measures to defend "the integrity of the franc" against them.

The vote was interpreted in the chamber lobbies as representing the majority parliamentary opinion against speculation.

Unconfirmed rumors circulated here tonight that Germany was preparing to devalue the mark and that the bank of France was preparing to raise its discount rate again, from 6 to 7 per cent.

Airplane Crash Remains Mystery To Air Officials

Pilot And Lone Passenger Meet Death On Farm Near Carlinville

Carlinville, Ill., May 29.—(P)—Mystery tonight cloaked the crash of a Chicago and Southern Air Lines plane which plunged to earth on a farm near here last night, carrying its two occupants, pilot and lone passenger, to their deaths.

With the plane demolished and strewn over 300 yards of rough farmland, there was little hope that investigators could determine exactly what forced the tri-motor plane to earth, killing pilot John B. Lynn, Fairfax, Okla., and his brother-in-law, Paul Gardner, Chicago.

Indications that the heavy weather that shrouded the ship's course from Springfield to St. Louis might have been responsible came with the revelation that the ship had been heading toward Springfield, in an opposite direction from its course, when it fell.

Raymond Love, a farmer living nine miles north of here, said he heard a "peculiar noise" above the drone of the motors when the plane flew over his home. A few seconds later the plane crashed and burst into flame a mile from Love's home.

A single letter—addressed to Miss Alma Martin, Washington, D. C.—was the only thing saved from the ship's mail cargo of eight pouches.

S. G. Rentschler of Concord spent Wednesday here transacting business.

Memorial Day Cryst

By Helen Welshimer

GREY rain, Memorial Day again... There are so many years... Between the night you marched away... And my quick-springing tears.

Sometimes it seems like yesterday... Tall lads went down the street... Beyond the throb of vanished drum... I hear their marching feet.

WHEN I come back from France, you said... We'll celebrate the day... You'll wear a pink dress, won't you, dear... Your hair my favorite way?

And lay a fire upon the heart... For maybe I'll be cold... Let's dine, beloved, by candlelight... I'd like the candles gold!

YOU made a tryst you couldn't keep... As other men did, too... Not only lads in khaki suits... But some in green and blue.

And other women keep this day... As I guard it for you... I always curl my hair and wear... The frock you asked me to.

ATTEMPT MADE TO HALT SOFT COAL STRIKE

Revised Legislation May Forestall Walkout

By Joseph L. Miller

Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, May 29.—(P)—A group of soft coal producers today faced against time and a threatened nationwide strike in the industry to revise legislation they believed might forestall the proposed walkout.

Engaged in the situation was the supreme court scrapping of N. R. A. codes. President Roosevelt said at a press conference that the coal situation was much like other problems brought about by the decision.

A committee of the Appalachian producers sought to redraft the Giffey coal stabilization bill to set up for the bituminous industry a "little N. R. A." under which proponents of the bill said the price structure could be of the ability to pay existing wages, preserved with resultant preservation.

The United Mine Workers, however, grimly went about the business of preparing for a strike beginning June 17, holding that unless a new wage agreement was signed by June 15, the men could not enter the mines.

John L. Lewis, U. M. W. head, said that mimeographed strike instructions would be sent out to 6,000 soft coal locals within a few days.

Lewis reiterated his belief that enactment of the Giffey bill would "clarify" the industry's position to such an extent that wage and hour contracts could be signed and the strike averted.

Counterfeiter Is Given Ten Year Sentence

Richard Adams Described As Most Dangerous Money Maker In U. S.

Chicago, May 29.—(P)—Described by a federal attorney as "the most dangerous counterfeiter in the country," Richard William Adams, 33, was sentenced to serve 10 years in prison today by Federal Judge John P. Barnes.

Mrs. Pearl Ella Zahn, 27, former St. Louis, Mo., dancing instructor, who was arrested with him in a Milwaukee suburb a week ago for manufacturing, possessing, and passing bogus $10 bills was given a two-year prison sentence. She fainted when sentence was pronounced.

Adams twice escaped from federal officers after previous arrests for counterfeiting, once in Chicago in 1933 when he leaped from a patrol wagon that was removing him from court to jail, after recapture when he previously fled the federal prison at Staten Island, N. Y., after serving one year of a 14-year sentence.

Judge Barnes ruled that Adams' 10-year term should run concurrently with his previous sentence, making his total sentence 13 years.

Following the arrest of Adams and Mrs. Zahn in Wisconsin federal agents raided their apartment here and seized $2,660 in bogus bills and a complete counterfeiting plant.

Zero Hour Is Reached; Boy Still Missing

Weyerhaeuser Family Waiting In Silence And Seclusion

Representative Kennedy Says Quarterback Should Can "Legal Wizards"

Tacoma, Wash., May 29.—(P)—The Weyerhaeuser family met in silence and seclusion tonight the "zero hour" in the $200,000 ransom kidnapping of their 12-year-old son, George.

The ransom note, delivered about six hours after the 8-year-old captive was abducted shortly before noon last Friday, threatened "harm" unless the money were paid within five days.

At noon today, the boy had been in the kidnappers' hands five days, but authorities were not in agreement on whether the time limit set expired then or tonight at 6:35 p. m. (Pacific standard time)—the time at which the note was delivered to the boy's lumber-wheeler parents.

J. P. Weyerhaeuser, Jr., father of the victim, and J. Rodman Titcomb, uncle of the boy, were believed attempting to complete negotiations for George's safe return.

A classified advertisement saying "We are ready. Percy Minnie," published apparently as a notice to the abductors that the lumber magnate was ready to negotiate, was withdrawn from newspaper after appearing through one day's edition.

Two wealthy members of the family, Frederick Weyerhaeuser of St. Paul and Rudolph Weyerhaeuser of Cloquet, Minn., arrived here today. Massed department of justice agents, remaining on the sidelines for the time being on the fervent plea of the family, shifted their forces as if making ready to go into action.

The whole city was tense. Police from San Francisco to the Canadian border were running down "clues" to the spectacular crime. Local authorities checked up fruitlessly on one "lead" after another.

A boy described as bearing a remarkable resemblance to the kidnapped lad was reported seen in a downtown cafe at San Francisco today, and police immediately began a thorough search of hotels and rooming houses in the vicinity.

GRANTS WAGE INCREASE

Peru, Ill., May 29.—(P)—E. E. Alger, owner of a chain of theaters in Illinois cities, today announced that he had granted wage increases of 5 per cent to his 100 or more employees as a result of the supreme court decision invalidating the N. R. A. codes. Alger said the abandonment of the N. R. A. will permit his theaters to operate more profitably on a competitive basis.

Springfield, Ill., May 29.—(P)—Utility officials and labor leaders negotiating toward a settlement of the Illinois Power and Light corporation strike in southern Illinois continued their discussions tonight without comment on the progress being made.

HUGH JOHNSON DEFENDS NRA IN RADIO TALK

Predicts Worst Orgy Of Wage Cutting Possible

Washington, May 29.—(P)—The original champion of N. R. A., Hugh S. Johnson, tonight took the cause of the demolished recovery agency to the country with a radio speech asserting that huge gains had been lost through "one explosive thunder" from the Supreme Court.

Johnson, who conducted nationwide speaking campaigns in behalf of N. R. A. during the administration's launching of the recovery agency, made his address tonight a few hours after President Roosevelt had declared the reaction of the country to the court decision was paramount to Washington developments.

In his customary free flowing words, Johnson sketched the condition of industry prior to the inception of N. R. A. an era, he said, of cost cutting, including wages, by which "the ghoul of industry survived."

With the institution of N. R. A., he said, a new method was applied by which the "chiseling fringe" of any industry was prevented from using guerrilla methods to promote its business.

With the invalidation of N. R. A., Johnson continued, price cutting began at once. He mentioned a reduction in the price of cigarettes, effected in New York, which he said meant "the ruin of the small tobacco concern."

Johnson appealed to what he termed the millions of "beneficiaries" of N. R. A. to inform their congressmen that they desire those benefits continued.

"If they do not act immediately we will see the worst orgy of wage cutting possible," he said.

Edward McGrady, assistant secretary of Labor, added in a few minutes remaining of the time scheduled for Johnson's broadcast, that he urged for Johnson's broadcast, that he wanted to "emphasize all the General had said and to add that wage and price cutting had been reported to this office from 17 states during the day."

"Every listener knows what N. R. A. did and did not do," Johnson told his audience. "If he did not realize it, then, he realizes it now."

Ask Roosevelt To Oust Three From His Team

Representative Kennedy Says Quarterback Should Can "Legal Wizards"

By Cecil B. Dickson

Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, May 29.—(P)—Calling upon President Roosevelt as "quarterback" to oust the "alleged legal wizards" from his football team, Representative Martin J. Kennedy, New York democrat, said today the " trio of legal-backs—Attorney General Cummings, Donald R. Richberg and Felix Frankfurter should be replaced by new talent."

Sitting in his office, his coat off, the Tammany-lie who served with Roosevelt in the New York legislature, told reporters if he could get to his "pal Franklin without being blocked by the White House secretariat," he would "like to give him friendly counsel about N. R. A. and the New Deal."

"Of course, nothing but 'yes men' and back slappers get to see Franklin now," Kennedy said, gazing out his office window. "But if I could chat with him I would say:

"Franklin, old boy, now that your brain trusters and their theories have had their day in—and their day out of—court why don't you return to your Albany kitchen cabinet custom; clear out the B-T's brain trusters; and alleged legal wisecrackers and get some country constitutional lawyer and hard headed common sense cronies who are as anxious over the safety of the people and government as you are."

He would advise the president, Kennedy said, to make a radio address to the nation soon on what course he planned to take with regard to N. R. A. and the remainder of the administration program.

Stay Sentence Of Reporter

Are Not Prossed

Huntsville, Ala., May 29.—(P)—Bribery charges against Sol Kone and Daniel Swift, New York attorneys accused of attempting to bribe Mrs. Victoria Price, principal witness in the "Scottsboro case," were not prossed in circuit court today after bonds of $2,000 each were declared forfeited.

Kone and Swift failed to appear when their cases were called and the court ordered the forfeitures.

J. T. Peterson, Birmingham, alleged "go-between" in the case, was freed when his case was not prossed.

The two New York attorneys were indicated on bribery charges after Mrs. Price accused them of offering her a sum of money.

The reporter was continued in the custody of his counsel, James D. C. Murray, until an appeal from an order of supreme court Justice John P. Carew can be argued before the appellate division. Justice Carew's order dismissed a writ of habeas corpus by which Money sought to escape the sentence imposed by general sessions Judge Morris Kowals.

Money refused to reveal the source of a series of articles on vice which he wrote for his paper.

ROOSEVELT IS STUDYING NEW NRA PROGRAM

Claims Missing Flyer Lives As "Medicine Man"

Colon, Panama, May 29.—(P)—Tom Roche, a naturalized German-American, today asserted that Paul Redfern, aviator who vanished eight years ago on a flight from Brunswick, Ga., to Rio De Janeiro had crashed into a mountain on that flight and now lives as a "medicine man" with the Indians who nursed him back to health in Dutch Guiana.

(Mrs. Paul Redfern, in Cleveland, O., was most skeptical and said she hoped the Roche story had more truth in it than others current in the last few years.)

Roche said the airman's legs and one arm were broken in the crash and he was cared for by the Indians.

NEW DEAL IS DEAD ISSUE G. O. P. TOLD

Republicans Celebrate 79th Anniversary Of Party

Bloomington, Ill., May 29.—(P)—Hailing invalidation of the N. R. A. as a death blow to the New Deal and calling all citizens to support constitutional government, Republicans tonight celebrated the 79th anniversary of the founding of the party in Illinois.

"The New Deal is on the way out and American ideals will soon be our guide," declared Justus Johnson, chairman of the Illinois Republican State Central Committee. "The Supreme Court stopped destructive encroachment on the finest contribution ever made to human advancement—the right of the individual to have something to say about his own destiny. The court declares that this policy must be maintained."

Representative Hamilton Fish, Jr., of New York, asserted:

"The issue today is greater than the party. We should send out a call to all followers of Washington and Jefferson to stand together for constitutional liberty and our American system of government."

"Abraham Lincoln said just prior to the 1860 election that the Democratic party was in a conspiracy to extend slavery and so today the New Deal administration has been in a plot to socialize industry in defiance of the constitution until stopped by the Supreme court. This government cannot endure half constitutional and half unconstitutional. From now on the American constitutional government will be preserved and continue to be the laud-backbone of the rights and liberties of the people under our Republican form of government."

"Under the New Dealers we headed for conflict between our free institutions on one side and regimentation and state socialism on the other. The party of Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt will not be silent while fundamental American principles and the framework of our government are being destroyed by the president, the brain trust and other socialists at Washington."

Johnson contended the administration had failed to bring recovery. He added:

"The courts declare their meddling is muddling. After slipping in public esteem, the administration now stands convicted of having sponsored the greatest folly of our national existence, and left to future generations the bill for its experimentation."

BREAKS SILENCE FOR FIRST TIME SINCE DECISION

Declares Business Men Will Stick To Codes

Washington, May 29.—(P)—President Roosevelt closely scrutinized the reaction of industry and the public tonight as, with scores of advisors, he strove to reduce the chaotic aftermath of N. R. A.'s destruction to an orderly plan of procedure.

Breaking his silence for the first time since the supreme court killed the Blue Eagle, he told newspaper correspondents that far more important than what is happening in Washington were the immediate consequences of the decision throughout American industry.

On his desk, he said, were numerous assertions by various code groups and trade associations of an intention to stick by the codes until new legislation could be formulated. He added, however, that cut-throat tactics by a minority in those industries could disrupt the whole scheme.

Of more than 75 businessmen, lawyers and editors, whom the president said he had consulted, one of the outstanding figures was General Hugh S. Johnson, original leader of N. R. A. whose vigorous tactics and biting epithets pushed the Blue Eagle agency to its former high place in popular prestige.

Johnson hurried to Washington with it was understood, a plan for a voluntary system of codes with the federal trade commission empowered to lift anti-trust law restrictions in certain cases. Mr. Roosevelt emphasized that Johnson was but one of 30 who had been advising him. Prof. Felix Frankfurter, of the Harvard Law School, a frequent Roosevelt advisor, accompanied the former N. R. A. chief.

In addition to the plan attributed to Johnson, similar in some respects to one advanced by chairman Harrison of the senate finance committee, there was growing speculation on the possibility that strong forces would get behind a constitutional amendment, removing the reifs on which N. R. A. flourished.

Mr. Roosevelt said this had been suggested to him together with many other proposals ranging from the abolishment of the supreme court to the abolishment of congress and even, he added with a chuckle, the elimination of the president himself.

6 Natives Are Killed In Riot At Rhodesia

Many Americans Are Being Protected By Troops Rushed To Scene

Bulawayo, Southern Rhodesia, May 29.—(P)—Hundreds of troops were rushed to the Copper Belt in northern Rhodesia today to protect whites, including many Americans, in the wake of fierce riots in which six natives were killed and many wounded at the strike-torn Roan Antelope mine.

Some of the troops were dispatched to the scene in four available Royal Air Force planes to stave off a possible uprising of the natives against a comparative handful of whites.

The mine manager's staff and their families were reported safe for the time being, according to word received here, but the fear disorders would spread led to the mobilization of whites as special constables.

The blacks appeared to be well organized, and it was believed there were agitators in a subversive movement. The strikers are demanding increased wages on the ground that the government had raised the poll tax by five shillings.

The strikers wrecked the compound and offices and attacked the power-house.

Troops with steel helmets and fixed bayonets patrolled the mines tonight.

BALL PLAYER CONVICTED

Los Angeles, May 29.—(P)—Pete Schneider, former Coast League baseball player, was convicted of manslaughter today for the death of Gustav Schnabel. Superior Judge Charles Burnell ordered him to jail until June 4, when Schneider will be sentenced to serve one to 10 years in San Quentin prison.

Schneider testified he beat Schnabel in a beer parlor February 12 because he molested Mrs. Schneider. Judge Burnell, who heard the evidence without a jury, said he did not believe Schnabel had molested Mrs. Schneider in a manner to justify the fatal fight.

As a Coast League ball player, Schneider had five home runs in one game.

Seek Legal Gambling

A bill to legalize bookmaking in Illinois has been introduced into the legislature by Representative Bolton, Chicago Democrat. Mayor Kelly of Chicago is said to be in favor of the proposed law. Under its provisions bookmaking would be permitted at places other than race tracks, where pari-mutuel betting is already legal. The taking of large sums in bets would be legalized.

Municipalities would be given power to regulate and license such establishments. State licenses would also be possible. It is not known what chance the bill has for passing, but the fact that it is backed by the Chicago authorities will mean a determined effort to put it on the statute books.

In view of the recent efforts Chicago has made to suppress bookmaking, this move comes as a surprise. Most of the 7,000 gambling places in Chicago have been closed since April 1, due to sledge and axe raids by uniformed police squads. It must be that officers have grown tired of such hard work and want to legalize what it takes so much physical energy to suppress.

Such a law would be a step backward for Illinois. Gambling is of course prevalent, but it is not legal, and there is no conscientious reason for giving it a legal stamp at this late date. The only conceivable excuse for such a law would be that the municipalities would derive revenue from gambling licenses. Financial gain can never justify moral decadence.

Sidewalk Cafes

The city of New York is replete with summer sidewalk cafes. Other cities have taken up the fashion, and this summer such eating places are likely to be all the rage. The idea came in vogue last year, copied from the custom in European cities.

Many of these places are fashionable and thoroughly modern. There is of course little privacy, unless the guests can get behind a potted palm screen. "Hands across the table" would surely be out of the question. The innovation affords every pedestrian an opportunity to see who is eating out this evening, accompanied by the luxury of wondering whether they can afford it.

Of course the sidewalk cafes are cool in the evening and give people the pleasure of eating out of doors, without having to go to a picnic and encounter bugs and flies. However, an evening on the sidewalk may cost more than a similar outing in the park. But there's the advantage of not having to prepare sandwiches and salads.

Why The Confusion

The press accounts of the effects of NRA collapse picture the government as in a state of bewilderment and confusion. Just why this should be is a mystery. NRA has been in existence scarcely two years, and the nation lived without it nearly a century and a half. Yet the officials in Washington act as if the people can never get along without the close regulation NRA provided.

One is inclined to wonder just how the nation existed for so many years, how it grew and prospered and became the greatest and richest country in the world before NRA was even dreamed of. Yet that is what happened, and it can continue to happen. It is wrong to emphasize confusion as an effect of doing away with something which was enacted only as an emergency measure.

The continuance of right business ethics is now up to business itself. It can now be demonstrated whether the country can recover from the depression without government aid. Business should bend every effort now to make progress and bring back normal conditions.

If there is a decided turn for the better and business can succeed in bringing back prosperity, it will prove itself the winner and will show that it can go forward without the artificial aids supplied by government. Otherwise there will be new legislation, and perhaps a constitutional amendment that will make code regulation permanent.

A Practical Way

From The Wisconsin Statesman
Willard A. Van Brunt, of Los Angeles, Calif., co-founder of the Van Brunt Mfg. Co. of Horicon, Wis., a bachelor, aged 88, who sold his holdings in that concern and retired in 1918, extended to his former fellow-workers on May 12th, who had worked under his direction for 25 years, some for longer periods, a splendid surprise. Eighty-seven of these men, and six widows, received the following day three one thousand dollar government bonds. Accompanying this surprise token of friendly regard was a fine letter to each one which portrayed a great heart in a single sentence: "The bonds are a part of your earnings while we were on the job."

What a practical way to share wealth! Far better than to endow some charitable organization, a hospital, an educational institution, or a research foundation. Mr. Van Brunt personally knows the deserving among his former co-workers.

Mr. Van Brunt's noble act is an inspiration for other men to voluntarily distribute their wealth direct to deserving co-workers.

Blow at Crooked Politics

City planning experts, meeting in Cincinnati for a discussion of problems of urban life, are told by Frederick A. Delano of the National Resources Board that city planning is striking a mortal blow at the political corruption which makes most city governments so inefficient and expensive.

Planning, says Mr. Delano, tends to break up the heavily concentrated blocs of population which are the chief reliance of the political boss. By breaking them up it robs the boss of his chief source of strength—and, in consequence, makes it easier for the city to get a government responsive to the will of all the people instead of a small political clique.

These are hopeful words, and if city planning can work such wonders we might profitably get more and more of it everywhere. Unfortunately, however, the problem is a trifle more complex than that.

In the long run the people of any city get just about the kind of government they deserve. So long as they let indifference and self-interest govern their attitude toward local politics, they are pretty likely to get poor city government in return.

Behind The Scenes In Washington

Roosevelt Will Make Race as Progressive, Backed by La Follette et al. . . . F. R. Gives Up Hope of Winning Over Big Business . . . Third Party Threat Fading.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—Mr. Roosevelt will run as a progressive candidate in 1936 and most liberals, including the bulk of the Senate progressives, will support him. Party lines will mean less than ever before.

That, at least until further notice, is the lineup following a secret White House conference on a recent evening, at which the president and the simon-pure progressive senators reached a much better understanding than they had had since about a year ago, when Roosevelt began trying to conciliate "big business."

The session was informal, but it signaled what insiders regard as another turning point in the New Deal. Roosevelt invited the senators in and asked them for support and suggestions.

The group included those two outstanding independents, Norris of Nebraska and La Follette of Wisconsin, as well as such Democratic progressive leaders as Costigan of Colorado, Wheeler of Montana, and Bone of Washington.

F. R. Urged to Fight
The boys spoke right out in the meeting. They agreed that the Roosevelt "must" program, along with the Wagner law board bill, made a strong progressive program—if Roosevelt would go through with it.

They vigorously urged him to assert an aggressive leadership, reminding him how Theodore Roosevelt had kept his grip on the American people by a fighting policy—even when he was only fighting with Congress.

They assured him the only way to overcome such popular apathy as had developed toward the New Deal was to hammer hard at the forces which had stalled his legislative program and which were now subjecting his policies to incessant drum-fire.

No doubt was left that the progressives were ready to go down the line for Roosevelt from now on if he would adopt a consistently liberal attitude.

Roosevelt Already "Sold"
The fact is that Roosevelt didn't need to be sold on what the progressives told him. He had it pretty well figured out for himself.

The batter for vegetable puffs may be prepared considerably in advance of a meal and placed in a refrigerator ready for quick call.

The full flavor of pork cannot be realized unless it is well cooked, the director said. There is a definite reason for cooking pork well because of the peculiar fiber of the meat. Fat is marbled through pork so that thorough cooking is necessary before the entire piece is flavored.

Larger Pork Chops
Often in cooking chops, she said, a heavy crust forms on the top and bottom so that there is very little edible meat left after the crust is penetrated. She advised housewives to buy larger, thicker chops though less in number, to avoid this condition.

The advantages of a well organized kitchen routine, through the use of modern equipment, were cited by the instructor. Many women use their own entire morning to cook several dishes, while if the dishes were made ready with system they could be cooked at once, cutting down the actual time of oven operation. She gave several illustrations of how time can be saved in the kitchen.

Attention of the audience was called to the sponsors of the school, whose names appear on the printed programs which are distributed each morning. Women attending the school are asked to show their appreciation by inspecting the products and appliances of these firms. The lobby exhibit of kitchen appliances and products has been viewed with interest by large numbers of women.

Selecting Good Meat
In his meat cutting demonstration, Mr. Goesser gave three rules in the selection of prime beef. A coating of fat shows that the animal has been fed for meat purposes, rather than for dairy use; the meat is well marbled by fat, and the bone has a pinkish appearance that indicates the animal to be young. A bone that is totally white probably comes from an animal of some age, the meat expert said.

Goesser appeared Wednesday noon before the Kiwanis club in a meat cutting demonstration. His lectures are unique in their educational value whether before an audience of men or women. A good piece of meat can easily arouse visions of a fine dinner.

All dishes prepared at the Cooking School are shown to the audience by mirrors attached to display tables. Miss Harris is assisted in her work by Miss Conklin, also connected with the National Livestock and Meat Board.

City's Finest Kitchen
In conducting the school Miss Harris has at her disposal what probably is the finest kitchen in Jacksonville. Two electric ranges, seven refrigerators, both ice and electric, large cabinets, enamel top tables and even a telephone are at the disposal of the Queen of Cooks. Seven refrigerators are not needed in any one kitchen, but Miss Harris is using all of these during the school to permit her audience to see them in actual operation.

Backstage there are more tables and when the cooking school experts get their program half over these have the appearance of a Sunday school picnic. Meats, vegetables, salads, cakes, everything that Miss Harris features, are set out in orderly rows ready for introduction to the audience.

Each day the finished dishes are presented to various members of the audience along with baskets of groceries, flour, soda pop, theater tickets and other gifts. On the last day a refrigerator will be awarded.

Plan Final Session
Miss Harris will bid farewell to her Jacksonville pupils Friday morning after the fourth session of the Cooking School. The success of the series was evidenced by the beginning, when the first large audience displayed genuine enthusiasm. Increasing crowds have been a source of pleasure to the firm making the school possible.

Friday morning's session will begin promptly at 9 o'clock. Every effort will be made to seat the final audience but only early attendance will insure a seat.

Musical entertainment Wednesday was furnished at the School by the Doyle Sisters and Philip Riggs and Truman Reynolds, Hawaiian guitar players.

Al Smith as G. O. P. Hope?
Roosevelt's liberal supporters, expect a genuine combination of conservative elements in both Democratic and Republican parties to align behind a conservative Republican ticket next year. Some of them actually believe a Democrat such as Al Smith or Lew Douglas might head that ticket—and mention of those two names is more than a pipe dream.

The active force in any such combination probably would be the American Liberty League under Joseph P. Kamp, which has persistent, pampered against items of the Roosevelt program and is looked to for leadership by many conservatives over the country.

And if this political realignment of right and left forces works out, it's more than a good bet that you'll find the American Federation of Labor leaping into politics next year on the Roosevelt side.

Refer to This Guide When Shopping for Beef

Selecting the right cut of beef for a special dish or a particular method of cooking is more or less a problem for the experienced housewife, and it is downright baffling to the young cook. Where a cut is located in a side of beef, what it is called, whether it is one of the tender or the less tender cuts, and what it looks like, all will assist materially when shopping for beef.

The problem of how to buy beef was one of the subjects discussed by Paul Goesser Wednesday at the Journal and Courier Foods on Parade cooking school. To illustrate that discussion, this guide to use when shopping for beef is given. Housewives may clip it out and paste it on a card and keep it for handy reference.

The principle that is the basis for all methods of meat cutting is to separate thick meat from the thin meat and the tender sections from the less tender. Thus the proper method of cooking may be applied to each cut. The chart shows how a side of beef is divided first into wholesale cuts and then into the smaller retail cuts which are the ones in which the homemaker is interested.

A side of beef is divided first into quarters. For ease in handling, this is done in the packing plant; therefore, the retailer buys fore and hind quarters.

Hind Quarter Nearly All Steaks.
Practically the entire hind quarter is sold as steaks. Round steaks, sirloin steaks, porterhouse, T-bone, and club steaks, as well as the one flank steak are all from the hind quarter and they are all fairly well-known to the consumer.

Sirloin, porterhouse, T-bone and club steaks are cut from what is known as the loin section—the sirloin from the loin end and the other three from the short loin. The muscles in this section are tender, therefore, these are the steaks selected for broiling or panbroiling—methods used in cooking the tender cuts.

Round steaks and the flank steak are from sections which are not so tender, and should be cooked a long time slowly and with some moisture. A thick steak from the round is known as a pot roast. The flank steak is boned and is a good choice for a stuffed steak.

The remaining cuts from the hind quarter are the rump used for roasts and pot-roasts; the heel of the round for a pot-roast; the hind shank for making soup; and the flank meat which may be used for stew or ground meat.

Fore Quarter Cuts Less Familiar.
The fore quarter is made up of cuts which, with the exception of the ribs, are much less familiar to the average housewife than the cuts from the hind quarter. The wise meat buyer will take advantage of the many excellent bargains to be found among the fore quarter cuts, especially after she has become acquainted with their many good points.

The rib cut, which sometimes is, but should not be called the "prime ribs," is made into standing or rolled rib roasts. This is the favorite cut for roasting.

Good "Stew" Meats.
The thin narrow section lying below the ribs is the plate and brisket. The brisket may be boned out and sold fresh, but is usually made into the popular corned beef. The plate is boned, too, but it is sold also as "corned" beef. The rib ends of the plate and sometimes of the ribs are tawed off and sold as short ribs or cross ribs.

The fore shank has more meat than the hind shank. It is used for soup, stews, and ground beef. The neck is trimmed and is sold as "neck boiling beef," or it may be ground or cut up for stew. Because of its excellent flavor, the neck is liked by housewives who make mince meat.

There is left now the chuck which is cut into pot-roasts and steaks. The Boston cut sometimes called the "bread and butter roast" is a square piece of meat made by cutting across the first two or three ribs of the chuck. Pot-roasts cut from the shoulder-arm side of the chuck are known as "round-bone chuck pot-roasts," or "shoulder pot-roasts," and also "shoulder-arm pot-roasts." Pot-roasts cut from the rib side of the chuck are known variously as "chuck" pot-roasts, "blade" pot-roasts and also "long bone" pot-roasts.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

To the Editor of The Jacksonville Daily Journal
HOLLYWOOD, Calif., May 29.—Hurray for the old constitution. Nobody wants to see that old lady led astray. But wouldn't this amendment to her be helpful? "When Congress passes a law, or a president exceeds his authority have some person notify the supreme court what has happened, and get them to examine the medicine and see if its poison, before its given to the patients, and not at the funeral." This amendment would make the supreme court a preventive, and not an autopsy jury. (Copyright, 1935)

Principal J. C. Mutch Reveals Facts Regarding High School Meet Here

Jacksonville was one of the five districts in the state high school athletic association to make a refund of entry fees for the district track and field championship meet held here May 11. Principal J. C. Mutch was informed in a report from the state headquarters in which figures for the state were disclosed.

The local district had the most entries, the report showed. There were 14 districts scattered over the state, and only five of these districts realized sufficient funds from gate receipts to defray the expenses of the meet.

Two athletes from this district won points at the state finals. They were Charles of Beardstown, who won the pole vault, and Cannon of Jerseyville, who won second place in the half-mile run.

Carrollton won the local district meet.

Thrill Seekers At Indianapolis

Indianapolis, May 29.—(P)—The multitude massed tonight for the annual speed spectacle in the Indianapolis motor speedway, a modern counterpart of Rome's circus maximus.

Thrill seekers came in throngs for the 500-mile automobile race which unless rain prevents will start at 10 a. m. (Central standard time) tomorrow in the huge hippodrome that holds 150,000 spectators.

By airplane, by train and by motor they came to watch thirty-three drivers, goggled and helmeted, dare death in a dash for fame and prize money totaling $100,000. Three men—two drivers and a mechanic—died in preparation for the event, bringing the course to a total of thirty.

Speedway officials reported the greatest advance sale in the history of the race. Threatening weather failed to stop a last minute rush for what seats and parking spaces remained.

The forecast was for cloudy and cool weather ideal condition for establishing a new record. The present mark is 104.883 miles per hour, made last year by "Wild Bill" Cummings of Indianapolis. Cummings will try again tomorrow for another victory.

Louis Meyer, the California comet from Huntington Park, with two victories here included in his long career, is another contender. He hopes to establish run his victory string to three. He won in 1928 and 1932. Fred Frame of Los Angeles, another former winner, is also in the field.

From several tyros comes a challenge to the veterans. Among the youngsters is the Dare Devil Rex May of Los Angeles, who set a new 25-mile record when he won the pole position in the classic by averaging 120.736 miles per hour in his qualification run. The field comprises a number of other youngsters and several veterans whose names are familiar to speedway rail birds.

For three consecutive years the speed average has gone up. Tomorrow's starting field is the fastest in history and with better motors, better tires, and drivers as daring as any who ever took a mount around the 2½-mile brick course another new record may be set.

The race must be run on no more than 42½ gallons of gasoline and six and one-half gallons of oil. Gasoline tanks hold only 15 gallons, necessitating three stops for fuel.

Nine of the speedsters are partstock. Twenty-three entries are powered by 4-cylinder motors and ten by 8-cylinder plants. There are eight front drives and one four-wheel drive. The others have the conventional rear drive.

Outside the track tonight a carnival spirit prevailed. Ferris wheel, tent shows, freaks and other entertainment were offered the persons parked in long lines of automobiles awaiting the opening of the gates at 6 o'clock in the morning.

Yankees Beat Senators 7-4

Washington, May 29.—(P)—Just as the Senators were beginning to solve Charley (Red) Ruffing's delivery and cut down some of the tremendous lead the Yankees had rolled up, a storm struck the field and washed out further proceedings, leaving New York the victor in a six-inning clash today, 7 to 4.

Washington put on its spurt in the sixth to score three runs and after the Yankees had equalled that burst in the seventh Jake Powell continued the home team's work by belting a home run. The rain, which had begun to fall earlier, became so heavy at this juncture that the game was ended and all the seventh inning scoring was wiped out.

The defeat cost the Senators a chance to win a slim slice of a first-division berth in a tie with the idle Detroit Tigers and the victorious Boston Red Sox for fourth place. They wound up in sixth.

Cliff Bolton, regular Washington catcher, was forced to retire with a split finger in the third.

Score: (Called, rain.)

Meat Cutting Shown At Kiwanis Session

Paul Goesser Demonstrates at Local Club: C.Y. Rowe Relates History

A meat cutting demonstration by Paul Goesser, meat expert who is appearing on the Journal-Courier cooking school program, entertained members of the local Kiwanis club at its Thursday meeting. The demonstration was preceded by a brief talk made by Cole Rowe, who gave a summary of the early day history of the local Kiwanis club.

While it is generally believed that women would be more interested in meat cutting and selection, Mr. Goesser pointed out that 25 per cent of the food bill of an American citizen is spent for meat, and this food alone is more frequently purchased by men than any other article. For this reason, said the speaker, men should be interested in meat purchases as much as the women.

Mr. Goesser said meats need to be carved properly to obtain the best food results, they should be selected from a standpoint of quality as well as for choice cuts. Cheaper cuts from a choice animal may be much more tasteful than an expensive cut from a poor beef, hog, or sheep.

Speaking of meat cooking, Mr. Goesser pointed out the value of slow cooking at a low temperature, when roasts are being prepared. This method results in less shrinkage, less fuel is used, and juicier roasts are prepared.

While the average purchaser of meats knows only about five cuts there are actually 100 cuts in a carcass, said Mr. Goesser.

Stephen R. Capps to Make Alaskan Trip

To Join Father for Visit to Land of Midnight Sun This Summer

Stephen R. Capps, Jr., a student at Illinois College left Tuesday for Chicago to join his father, Stephen R. Capps, Sr., and accompany him on a trip which will take him to Alaska.

Mr. Capps, Sr., who is beginning his twenty-fifth summer in Alaska, will go from Chicago to Minneapolis-St. Paul and from there to Seattle, Washington. During the summer the geological survey group—a mapping expedition—under the auspices of the United States Geological Survey, will travel far into the interior or northern Alaska.

At Seattle the party will start north by ship, sailing June 1st. Steve will leave the boat at Cordova to journey inland with the mapping crew, while his father will continue on to Kodiak Island, where he will spend the summer doing survey work.

The territory in which Capps will work lies about one hundred miles east of Mount McKinley in a rugged mountainous region which has never been explored except by prospectors. As a matter of fact only about half of the Alaska Territory has been explored and mapped by the Geological Survey in the thirty-five years it has been engaged in the work. The party which Steve will accompany is expected to map about 1,500 square miles of territory during the summer season, which lasts from about the middle of June until the first of September.

The purpose of the work in Alaska, as outlined by Mr. Capps, is to make a base map of the mineral resources of the territory, in order to aid development of those resources. But before the geological work can be done, it is necessary to make topographic surveys and maps of the region. It is in the initial topographic work that Steve's party will be engaged, and Steve will be acting as assistant to the topographic engineer, recording observations, making calculations, and in general making himself useful to the expedition.

One of the interesting features of the trip is that the territory into

Call for Cooks in Conservation Camps

Experienced Men Asked to Report at Relief Office

The Emergency Relief office here has received a call for cooks. It comes from the headquarters of the Sixth Corps Area in Chicago. The call is for cooks to be employed in the CCC camps. This state is asked to furnish forty negro cooks and 103 white men.

Experienced local cooks who are out of employment are asked to come to the relief office at once if they wish to make application for the jobs that are open in the camps. They must pass a physical examination, and must be willing to go to the Pacific coast if necessary.

The local office must know by Monday, June 3, how many cooks can be furnished from this county. This is a good opportunity for employment for those who are qualified.

DEMOCRATS PROPOSE HOLDING PRIMARIES DURING SEPTEMBER

Springfield, Ill.—(P)—Party primaries would be held in September, rather than April, under an election reorganization bill, before the house today with the apparent support of the Democratic organization.

Rep. Arthur J. Quinn, Chicago Democrat who introduced the bill, also proposed that the delegates and alternates to national conventions and the members of the state central and senatorial committees be appointed by the county chairmen of the major parties. At present they are elected at the primaries.

"A fall primary," Quinn said "would abolish campaigns during most of the hot summer months and would speed up political activity in the fall."

Benjamin S. Adamowski of Chicago, Democratic floor leader in the house, introduced a series of bills consolidating local elections and making changes which the Chicago board of election commissioners claimed would reduce frauds at the polls.

Former Governor Edward F. Dunne, who is attorney for the Chicago election board, sponsored the Adamowski bills.

Democratic leaders have killed Republican bills for the permanent registration of voters after a bitter fight in which charges were made that thousands of fraudulent ballots are cast in Chicago elections.

COLLEGE RECEIVES MEMORIAL MIRROR

It is six feet by three feet and is heavily ornamented with gilt carving at the top and around the frame.

It has been placed in the center of the south wall and adds a quaint grandeur to the already beautiful home. The donors of the mirror include Irving Woods, father; Vinton, Lester and Donald, brothers, and one sister, Bonnie.

some of the instruction they absorbed during their recent study in Chicago which they have put to outstanding use.

And the Royal Serenaders, Hawaiian guitar experts, have been getting a fine round of applause after each of their efforts. The boys, Philip Rings and Truman Reynolds, have been working diligently on their programs for the cooking school, and the audience appreciates their efforts.

The Journal and Courier's master of ceremonies was somewhat non-plussed Wednesday when he came out to award the prizes. From way up in the far corner of the balcony came a childish voice "Daddie" The voice didn't cease for sometime and was quieted only when Paul Gooser, the meat cutting expert, took the child out behind the theater and turned her loose on a sand pile.

Miss Harris gave a few words of advice to mothers in her Wednesday lecture. Bow-leggedness in children is caused by lack of some essential part of diet and not because the child walked too young. The tiny bones have not received the proper sort of nutrition, she declared, and said that meat broth should be included up to the age of nine months, and that broiled bacon should be one of the first meats given the child.

Cooking school attaches, those men who have displays in the lobbies and who work backstage, are beginning to wonder what time they should get to the show in order to get there ahead of the women. Wednesday morning the auditorium was one fourth filled before a lot of the men reached the theater.

Mrs. Raymond Nusspicket, who received one of the dishes prepared by Miss Harris, was almost shocked when she returned home to find the meat dish awaiting her there. She left the theater before the gift was announced, and didn't know anything about it until told about it by her husband, the dynamic Illinois College football, swimming and baseball coach.

Ask More Millions To Use for Relief

Put Professional and Clerical People to Work

Washington — (AP) — Unemployed professional and clerical workers would be put to work examining income tax returns and idle building tradesmen would be given construction jobs at army posts in 22 states under work relief proposals made public today.

Formal requests for funds to carry out these projects were included in $65,956,816 of work relief applications announced by the applications division of the emergency council.

While still more applications poured in from federal departments, municipalities and the states, the government sought to move nearer an actual start of its program of substituting jobs for the dole.

Funds to begin $528,093,600 of projects already approved by President Roosevelt were made available by an executive order signed last night. The largest item to win the president's final O.K. was $400,000,000 for highway construction and grade crossing eliminations. More than a half-billion dollars of other work already recommended by the works allotment advisory committee remained to be passed upon formally by the chief executive.

In the additional applications disclosed today, the treasury asked $14,842,825 to employ jobless "white collar" people in two tax-refereeing projects.

One of these would be the examination of 350,000 income tax returns which normal forces of the internal revenue bureau were said to be unable to handle. The other would be special investigation, in 20 metropolitan areas, of industries subject to certain excise taxes.

Price Wars In New York Stores Are Continued

Cigarettes Are Being Sold At 72 Cents A Carton, Book
Prices Fall

New York, May 29.—(P)—Minor price wars continued in New York department stores today as a result of the lifting of NRA restrictions.

Hundreds of people stood in long lines at the leading stores for the privilege of buying cigarettes at 72 cents a carton, where they had been paying 25 cents for two packages.

A leading popular book series (the modern library) led the lowering of book prices in dropped book departments with a drop to 52 cents from the code price of 95 cents.

Books and cigarette prices had always been the football of the department stores in their efforts to get customers into the establishment and no time was lost in reviving the practice.

The slash in cigarette prices drew caustic comment from tobacco and drug chains. One executive termed it "highway robbery" and pointed out that the department stores' sales of cigarettes "at 30 cents below cost per carton purely as an advertising stunt" made it entirely impossible for tobacco stores to compete. "We had hoped," he said, "that the NRA had wiped out this sort of thing permanently."

ROSIERCIANS TO HOLD CONCLAVE

All Rosiercians within a fifty-mile area will attend a series of addresses to be given by Cecil A. Poole, K. R. C. member of the National Board of Lectureship of the Rosiercians order, Amore, beginning June 1 in Springfield.

Mrs. Florence M. Connors of Jacksonville, local Rosiercian, states that these conclaves are traditional with the order. It is declared that during the reign of Amenhotep IV, Pharaoh of Egypt, 1350 B. C., the period in which the philosophical order is traditionally asserted to have had its origin. Rosiercians began to periodically meet in grove temples. These secret meetings were for the discussion and contemplation of the then advanced knowledge of the time.

Treks to these early conclaves were over the desert waste lands of northern Africa. By contrast, Mrs. Connors states the Grand Lodge of the order of San Jose, California, has modern motor vehicles, with the latest sound and talking motion picture equipment and other devices to tour the United States to demonstrate to its membership the philosophical and scientific principles of the movements and teachings.

One of the discourses, it is said, is to consist of a discussion of the legends and archaeological finds appertaining to the continents of Lemuria and Atlantis referred to by Plato and Sir Francis Bacon. It is expected that all local Rosiercians will attend the session.

PASTOR HELD FOR SLAYING POLICE CHIEF

Charged With Firing
Shot That Killed Man
He Baptized

Orange, Tex., May 29.—(P)—The Rev. Edgar Eskridge, 40 Baptist minister and vice crusader, was arrested late today as the suspected shotgun slayer of Police Chief Ed J. O'Reilly, whom he baptized into his church.

O'Reilly was fired upon from a motor car today while standing on a street corner here conversing with a friend. Yesterday he arrested Mr. Eskridge on a charge of impersonating an officer during a raid early Sunday on the Silver Slipper night club near here.

Friends of the minister said he was highly incensed and drove around at last night in his motor car, C. C. Letty, a lumber accountant, who was talking with Chief O'Reilly, told police that the minister was the man who fired from the motor car.

O'Reilly had reported that when the minister led the night club raid he displayed a Texas ranger's badge. The officer said he took two pistols from the minister. County officials did not press the charges against Eskridge and he was released.

A posse armed with machine guns, tear gas and sawed-off shotguns was pressed into the search for the minister after O'Reilly was slain. The minister was arrested 80 miles east of Orange, and placed in jail at Detritdar, La.

O'Reilly, who was married and had one daughter, had been an intimate friend of Mr. Eskridge.

Stock Market Settles Down

By Frank MacMillan

New York, May 29.—(P)—The stock market settled down a little today and went seriously about the business of readjusting equity prices to the changed conditions of a code-less business set-up.

In the process utilities came to the fore on active buying which sent prices of many of the leaders in that division up major fractions to 3 points or so. Most of the pivotal industrials were rather freely offered, however, and the minus sign was the favorite prefix for quotations at the close, taking the list as a whole.

Similar trends were notable in the bond market where loans of the power companies fared well, while the bulk of corporate obligations were a little soft.

Traders in the staple markets shared the general confusion, especially as they wondered what would be the fate of the government's agricultural program when it came up for its inevitable scrutiny by the supreme court. Wheat was 21 to 21 1/2 of a bushel lower, and cotton lost $1.50 to $1.60 a bale. Corn ended down 1 to 1 1/2 of a cent.

Wheat Prices Take Nosedive

By John P. Boughan

Associated Press Market Editor
Chicago, May 29.—(P)—Joined by five cents a bushel collapse of wheat prices at Minneapolis, grain markets here suffered sharp late downturns today.

Milling interests were reported to have withdrawn abruptly for at least the time being as buyers of wheat, and there were reports that demand for flour had fallen off except to fill immediate wants. With wheat crop advances generally bearish, Minneapolis wheat values dropped to the maximum limit allowed during any 24-hour period, and Chicago May and July wheat and December corn, as well as all deliveries of oats and rye here, registered new low price records for the season.

Wheat in Chicago weak at the day's bottom level, 21 1/2c under yesterday's finish, July 84 1/2c, corn 1 1/2c down, July 78 1/2c, oats 2 1/2c off, and provisions unchanged to 25 cents lower.

The Chicago wheat market ran into heavy selling after word came of disturbing developments at Minneapolis. Prices in the northwest have been out of line recently with Chicago, and when selling pressure increased here the speculative pit was unable temporarily to absorb the offerings. Numerous stop-loss orders to let go of wheat holdings were thus forced into execution.

Summer Sweethearts

By Mel McEllett © 1935, NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

KATHARINE STRYKURST, beautiful, 20, becomes acquainted with MICHAEL, 22, through a riding teacher, and acknowledges an unwilling attraction toward him. She is worried over the progress of an affair between ZOE PARKER, her best friend, and GIBBS LARKIN, whom ZOE's parents disapprove.

Katharine and Dr. JOHNS HYLE, friend of the Strykurst family, take Zoe to a night club where she sees Gibbs with a notorious woman. Zoe threatens to kill herself.

That same night Michael is involved in taking SALLY MOON, local coquette, to the same place. Sally, arriving home late, informs her father that she and Michael are engaged.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVIII

KATHARINE said very softly into the telephone, "John, I wish you'd come over—if you can get away, that is. Is there bridge or something?"

She was at the instrument in the upper hall of the Parker house. Zoe was not 15 feet away. Gerda, for the moment, was with Zoe. Katharine, with a splitting headache, she wanted to call Dr. Kaye, but Zoe had protested.

John said yes, there was bridge, but he could manage it.

"Gracia—Mrs. McIlvaine—just ran in," he said. "She'll take my hand."

In spite of her relief, in spite of her fear for Zoe Katharine could not refrain from making a grimace. Of course, Gracia would be over! As soon as she knew John Kaye was in Intoxic, Gracia had put on her prettiest frock, made up her plump face as seductively as she knew how and very casually "lapped in" at the Strykursts. Just like Gracia. And, if she could manage it, she would break her engagement to that nice army officer and marry John Kaye herself.

"She's years older than he is," Katharine said rather angrily.

She went back to Zoe's room. Zoe had refused to permit herself to be undressed. She was lying on the bed, her evening sandals clasped with mud and dew dragging the pretty coverlet away. Her face was lead color. Her blue eyes, open wide, had a sort of dead look in them.

Gerda asked if there was anything else she wanted. At a negative shake of the head, the maid went away. Katharine sat down beside the girl.

"Zoe, won't you talk about it? It would help, maybe."

Zoe twisted her small body about so that her face was again burrowed into the pillow.

"Go away, why don't you? Leave me alone. Oh, I'm dying—that's what it is. This awful feeling... I can't stand it!" Suddenly she sat up with one violent movement, clutching her head in her hands.

"I was going to marry him—do you hear? I didn't believe what people said, didn't care what he'd been in the past. But now I've seen him with that—that devil. Now I know how he feels. Why he never wanted me for a minute. I was a fool. He was laughing at me—laughing all the time."

KATHARINE did not try to stem the tide of the other girl's sufferings. It was dreadful to look upon the rawness and newness of the wound she had received.

"That's why I want to die, Kay. You've got to help me. I can't—I

"This will do the trick. Two of these now. You'll sleep like a log."

"All right," Zoe said dully. "I want to bathe my face, I think. Back in a minute."

Katharine and Dr. Kaye waited as she disappeared into the glittering, tiled bathroom. They could hear the rushing of water. Then a thud.

John Kaye rushed for the door. It was locked.

"The balcony!" gasped Katharine. "You can get in through the bathroom window."

The doctor hooked his leg over the sill. He was out of sight. Katharine waited, her heart thudding painfully. Zoe—how awful! What would they find?

The key grated in the lock. Dr. Kaye stood in the doorway, Zoe's body in his arms. A strangely limp Zoe, her face stained by a brownish liquid.

"White of egg, quickly," grated the doctor. Katharine never knew how they got through the confusion that followed. Bells ringing—people hurrying to and fro through the corridors. Mrs. Parker was there, her face strained and white. And there was a nurse with dark hair under a dyaw cap.

"However did it happen?" wailed Zoe's mother. Katharine said something nervous and rather garbled about Zoe's desperate headache—John Kaye's prescription.

"She just got the wrong medicine, that's all," Katharine said, trying to make the lie sound reasonable.

"Oh, Katharine, do you think so?" Terror looked out of the older woman's eyes. "Katharine, it wasn't anything else? She was happy lately, wasn't she? It wasn't—wasn't the other?"

"How could it be?" You had to lie to mothers, Katharine reflected. Zoe's mother couldn't have borne to know that her child had gone through that summer night. Life was sometimes too black and pitted with terror.

ALL through the night they fought for Zoe's life. Katharine went through the halls softly, once she met John in the doorway and he smiled at her wearily.

"John, is she—are you going to be able to—?"

"Don't ask me now. I don't know." He looked desperately tired. "You'd better lie down and get some rest yourself."

"Oh, I'm all right. I simply couldn't go home. I wouldn't be able to sleep anyhow."

She went down again to the library where Mrs. Parker, propped with pillows and sustained by her husband, was waiting.

The woman's haggard eyes sought her face. "Katharine, if Zoe dies, I'll—"

"Don't talk that way, Mama," Henry Parker patted his wife's hand. "She can't die. We won't let her."

They were simple people again, this house and all the grandeur it had acquired meant nothing to them.

"Henry, do you remember when she cut her head so badly on that radiator? She was four... I'll never forget it..."

Mrs. Parker burst into wild weeping. Already they were talking as if Zoe were dead, thought Katharine, fear clutching at her heart.

The night wore through. There was a blaze of light over the water. Light poured into the sickroom, where a small figure lay stretched on a carved and gilded bed. The nurse extinguished the bulb that dangled, hospital-wise, in a twist of white paper. The room was very still.

Dr. Kaye went to the door. He still wore his black broadcloth but he had long since discarded the coat with the satin lapels. In his shirt-sleeves and braces he looked oddly grim.

Katharine was in the hall, curled up on a window seat. She brushed her hand across her eyes as the doctor appeared.

"Oh, John, I think I must have dozed off just for an instant. I had the most awful dream..."

His face startled her. It was so drawn. "Johnny, she isn't—she hasn't."

He could not speak. Katharine crouched low, as if to ward off a blow.

Journal-Courier Cooking School Notes

Among the most popular prizes given away daily at the Foods on Parade Cooking School are the delicious meat dishes which Miss Harris prepares.

The choice roast, leg of lamb, etc., which she cooks is placed on a paper doilie on a round painted tray, and garnished with the vegetables and fruits that should be served with it.

The women who receives one of these prizes has her next day's dinner, and a grand one too, all ready for her.

Meat salads which "stick to the ribs" may be from the left-over roast were accorded recognition in the cooking school. They are simply prepared and attractively served. Men not ardent salad fans will take to them immediately.

"Left-over meats afford the cook an excellent chance to exercise her imagination and ingenuity. To make an attractive and palatable dish out of an unpromising left-over is no small triumph," says Miss Harris, lecturer at the Journal and Courier cooking school.

More than twice as many different cuts of meat are available to the housewife when she goes shopping today as compared to ten years ago. Styles of meat cuts have changed too. Miss Harris says. A total of 101 different cuts of meat are now in fairly common use—enough to give a different cut of meat every day for more than three months!

The meat thermometer again took a bow at the cooking school. It takes every bit of the guess work out of cooking roasts, and even thick steaks. Miss Harris says. Inserted in the center of the roast it registers the exact degree to which the meat has been cooked, no guessing required.

One of the many old theories blasted at the cooking school is that a steak must be turned every few minutes when it is under the broiler. Miss Harris shows that broiling is one of the easiest as well as best ways of cooking a steak and demonstrates that it needs to be turned but once.

If you are no admirer of the Mae West curves and want to take off a few pounds, build yourself a reducing diet around lean meat, advises Miss Harris. Eating generous portions of lean meat will prevent that "starved" feeling and moreover the meat supplies essential portions and minerals which must be included in the menu to prevent destruction of body tissues and keep the body in tone during dieting.

NEW SCHEDULE FOR CHURCHES

Sunday School And Morning Services To Start Earlier

The summer schedule in the churches starts this coming Sunday. This brings with it a change in the hour of Sunday school and church services in the morning and as well as the Sunday evening union services.

For the months of June, July, and August Sunday school will start at 9 o'clock in the Jacksonville churches which are associated in the Ministerial Association. The morning church service will begin at 10 o'clock with dismissal about 11.

This change was put into effect last year and was found to be most helpful, as it made it possible for the church services to be held before the intense heat of noon day.

The evening service will be the first of the Union services to be held on Grace M. E. church lawn at 7:30. Dr. F. B. Oxtoby of Illinois College will be the speaker of the evening.

It is suggested that Jacksonville citizens notice the church announcements in Saturday's papers to make sure that the change took effect in their church.
